Entered at the Post Office at Keytesville Mo as second-class mail matter.

Yes, it was a severe shock and not a light blow to old subscribers of the St. Louis Republic when that paper did not appear in their mail boxes but the Globe Democrat instead. Old 1808 had been the political and news standby of many in the county for the period of their lives and they felt very much the same as if a member of the family had been lost when the news of the end of the Republic reached them. While the wobbly career of the Republic since Mr. Seymour was its chief editor has disappointed many of the old time, rock-ribbed, moss-back Democrats, is not arousing their disgust and procuring for them an order of discontinuance, it is also true that among the vast majority there is a deep feeling of loss and regret, none the less because its most formidable rival for news and politically became its possessor. Still, among many old line Democrats there has been a strong impression of the reliability of the G-D for accurate statement of current events and the prejudice which existed a few years ago has to a great extent, abated. It will depend upon the fairness of the G-D in giving political news and boosting Missouri to hold to any great extent the subscribers it has gained by absorption of the list of The Republic.

THE MAKING OF A FAMOUS MEDICINE
How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Is Prepared For Woman's Use.
A visit to the laboratory where this successful remedy is made impresses even the casual looker-on with the reliability, accuracy, skill and cleanliness which attends the making of this great medicine for woman's ills.
Over 350,000 pounds of various herbs are used annually and all have to be gathered at the season of the year when their natural juices and medicinal substances are at their best.
The most successful solvents are used to extract the medicinal properties from these herbs.
Every utensil and tank that comes in contact with the medicine is sterilized and as a final precaution in cleanliness the medicine is pasteurized and sealed in sterile bottles.
It is the wonderful combination of roots and herbs, together with the skill and care used in its preparation which has made this famous medicine so successful in the treatment of female ills.
The letters from women who have been restored to health by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which we are continually publishing attest to its virtue.

Vocational Home Economics
The Department of Vocational Home Economics of the Keytesville High School is doing very constructive work and feels more and more every day the value of such an opportunity. It is a nation wide project, organized by progressive men and women for the purpose of making more practical and applicable the ordinary course of Home Economics that is commonly offered. Instead of the limited branches cooking and sewing, this course offers the allied sciences, house decoration, house construction, costume design, dress making, home nursing and a thorough course in general science, which includes such practical problems as sanitary sewerage disposal, pure water analysis and supply, a concise study of the common diseases and their prevention and a study of the various modern methods of heating, and the construction and advantages of each. The complete course at present covers two years work of two units each, making one fourth of the entire high school period devoted to a study that will benefit the girls, their homes and the community in which they live, the rest of their lives. The course is offered to the Freshmen and Sophomores since it is well known that the majority of girls leave school at this time. The girls wish to extend to the public an invitation to visit their department at any time during the entire nine months.
